COURSE OVERVIEW & STRUCTURE

This qualification reflects the role of workers in the community and/or residential setting who follow an individualised plan to provide person-centred support to people who may require support due to ageing, disability or some other reason. Work involves using discretion and judgement in relation to individual support as well as taking responsibility for own outputs. Workers have a range of factual, technical and procedural knowledge, as well as some theoretical knowledge of the concepts and practices required to provide person-centred support.

To achieve this qualification, the candidate must have completed at least 120 hours of work as detailed in the Assessment Requirements of the units of competency.

QUALIFICATION STRUCTURE

This qualification offers three different streams: Ageing, Disability and Home and Community Care. Seven core units are common for each stream. The specialisation in any stream or combination of streams will depend on the choice of electives selected to complete the qualification.
